HOW TO: APPLY A DUPLICATED CREDIT COURSE TO A REQUIREMENT

In order to allow duplicated credit courses to apply towards a requirement, you will also have to add the occurrence of the course which holds credit. This is because only the credit-bearing occurrence can actually count toward a requirement – the duplicated occurrence counts for nothing and only serves as a visual indicator that a student has met a program’s GPA requirement.

Step 1: Click the Exceptions button and select “Apply or Exclude a Course”.

HOW TO: ALLOW A COURSE WITH AN UNACCEPTABLE GRADE TO APPLY

On requirements that require the student to achieve a certain grade in a course, you may notice that courses with grades below this acceptable level will appear to apply. However, the courses are only applying for GPA purposes and are not counting toward the requirement itself. For example, in the requirement below, ACC 202 with a grade of D is applying to the requirement but is not factoring into the course count.

HOW TO: ALLOW A COURSE TO SATISFY MULTIPLE REQUIREMENTS

Many programs have behind the scenes “double dipping” restrictions that prevent courses from applying to multiple requirements. You may sometimes want to allow a course to satisfy multiple requirements, in which case you will need to follow the steps below. In this example, we would like a course that is already satisfying the A&S Social Sciences requirement to also count toward the Neuroscience Minor Electives.

Step 1: Click the Exceptions button and select “Apply or Exclude a Course”.

HOW TO: ALLOW A COURSE TO SATISFY MULTIPLE REQUIREMENTS

Step 2: Enter the course you would like to apply and then uncheck the double dip restriction checkbox in order to allow the audit to ignore the encoded double dipping restriction. This box is checked by default to ensure that substitutions do not allow courses to double dip when that is not the intention.

TROUBLESHOOTING

Why didn't the course I entered apply to the requirement?

Check to see if the course is applying to another area. Many programs have behind the scenes “double dipping” restrictions that prevent courses from applying to multiple requirements. You may need to exclude the course from another area to allow it to apply where you'd like. Or, if you'd like the course to apply to both areas, you'll need to ensure that you've unchecked the double dip restriction box when adding the course to the requirement(s).

The requirement area went complete/turned green before all courses were completed?

Have you entered an exception to allow 2 courses in place of 1? If so, make sure you have altered the number of courses or hours required by this area to reflect the new number the area will need to correctly go complete or else the requirement may show as complete before it should.

The requirement should be complete but it is still red?

Have you incorrectly entered an exception to waive a course? If you used the “exclude a course” function instead of reducing the total numbers of courses or hours required, the requirement will not go complete correctly.

Have you entered an exception to substitute 1 course in place of 2 courses? If so, make sure you have altered the number of courses or hours required by this area to reflect the new number the area will need to correctly go complete or else the requirement may never show as complete.

I waived a course in one requirement, but the exception did not apply to the same course in another requirement?

In order to waive a course from multiple areas of the audit, you will need to repeat your exception in all desired areas. The requirement areas are not linked in any way, so multiple exceptions may be needed. For example: Waiving the same course from a Major Core area and the GCCR area OR Substituting a course for the same course in the Major Core and the GCCR areas.
